TimeLord's Ships and another follows, this time with faster, smarter, and deadlier devices to trap you. Wave after wave, with up to 256 levels of increasing challenge. You may get past 10, 20, or even 50 levels—but 256? Attack of the TimeLord was released just before Christmas, and it's already becoming a big favorite. Now let's see those tips and high scores!

In the last issue, we promised a reader's poll to determine the highest-rated Odyssey cartridges. You'll find your official Odyssey Adventure Magazine Reader's Poll on the reverse side of the subscription card included in this issue. You can fill out the Reader's Poll whether or not you subscribe or renew your subscription. Send the completed card to: Odyssey Reader's Poll, 49D Monroe NW, Grand Rapids, MI 49503. We'll have the results for you in the next issue of Adventure Magazine. And may the best game win!

In the 1983 Arcade Awards, presented by Electronic Games magazine, The Great Wall Street Fortune Hunt was chosen as the "Most Innovative Videogame" of the year! In addition, Conquest of the World received a Certificate of Merit in the "Best Multi-Player Videogame" category.

ON THE COVER

The newest Odyssey videogame presents a completely original, mind-boggling challenge—save Earth from murderous Beebals and Killer Bees from outer space! There's a complete description in the Coming Up section on page 14. It's Bee-Utiful!

A BIG FAN

I am a big fan of Odyssey². I have talked 3 people into thinking about an Odyssey² who were going to get Atari, I have also tried out The Voice and we love it! I like UFO, Pick Axe Pete, Crypto-Logic, Baseball, Football, War of Nerves, Soccer, Monkeyshines, K.C.'s Crazy Chase, and Smitherens. All my friends want to see my Odyssey² when they come up to my house. Odyssey², you're the best home video system ever! I spent my money in the arcade until I got an Odyssey². Keep up the good work. My friends and I have a club that meets every week and makes a newsletter about Odyssey².

Tracy Myers
 Boonville, North Carolina

We'd love to see a copy of your newsletter. Tracy! We hope you will make your club a formal chapter of the Odyssey Adventure Club. See page 15 for details. And keep up the good work! lol!

BRIDGING THE GENERATION GAP

I've had my Odyssey game about a year now and still enjoy it. My favorites are Logix and Dynasty. I have all the cartridges except four. My game gets more attention than the tv! When my grandson was here he was up at six in the morning playing—mostly Pick Axe Pete. My husband was in the vending business, so I've always had games around. I never got tired of them, but they took up a lot of space. The Odyssey² takes up very little space and has a variety of fun. I took about five months to decide on what game to buy. I think the keyboard and hand controls made me decide on an Odyssey².

GRAY MATTER

What does Spyrus the Deathless, TimeLord of Chaos, have against you? An armada of deadly Time Ships laden with nuclearic killers...lethal annihilators...ont-matter mines...and the clock. Your only defense is the laser cannon mounted on your Time Machine. And, of course, your own cunning and speed. Destroy one light of the

THE RINGS

Thank you for writing, Mrs. Horlitzner to know that a grandmother and her grandson can both enjoy playing Odyssey games!

MORE GAME LIVES?

I want to congratulate you on your newer games like Pick Axe Pete and K.C.'s Crazy Chase. I think they are the best you have ever had. And the Voice is excellent, also. I wish on your games you would get three game lives like in the arcade games, instead of one. Keep up the good work and keep those great games coming.

Mike White
Jackson, Michigan

Many Odyssey games do offer more than one life. Mike, New TURTLES gives you 3 lives! You can lose 9 robots and still win Alien Invaders—Plus the new P.T. Barnum's Acrobats gives you ten chances to score. In Cosmic Conflict you can keep on going until your power runs out, even if you've gotten zapped. As for some of the other games, there's another way to look at it. The arcade games give you three or more lives because otherwise you wouldn't spend your money with the Odyssey² system, all you have to do to keep playing is push the reset button.

D & D CLUB PLAYS "QUEST"

I have every one of the Odyssey cartridges and our entire family plays the games constantly. We really think it is the best on the market. The Challenger and Master Strategy games are by far the best. All my friends who have "other brands" of video game sets think mine is the best. I run a weekly club meeting where we play Dungeons and Dragons for hours on the weekend, and for a break the whole club likes to play Quest for the Rings.

Dan, P. McCrum Jr.
Maitland, Florida

ATTACK of the TIME LORD!

Great, Dan! But how about playing Quest for the Rings for hours and then playing Dungeons and Dragons for a break? (Just thought we'd ask!)

ODYSSEY AIDS REHABILITATION

We purchased an Odyssey² about two years ago for our 27-year-old son who had been severely injured in an automobile accident. Since then, he has spent many hours at the keyboard of his Odyssey² and it has not only helped to occupy his time, but has also helped to redevelop the fine motor skills in his right hand. He is also in the process of learning to speak again, and we feel that the Type & Tell would aid him in communication. We purchased all of the cartridges available here in Odessa; but unfortunately have a hard time finding the newer ones. If there is some way that we could order directly from the company, we would appreciate the information. Thank you for any help you could give us.

Mrs. Norma Norrell
Odessa, Texas

By now, Mrs. Norrell, you have received a Type & Tell cartridge, and an order form. You now our best wishes for your son's rehabilitation. Everyone at Odyssey is proud to know that our game has made such an important difference.

COLOR TV IS SAFE

We got an Odyssey² system last Christmas. My dad took it off the color television because he thinks it will ruin the television. Is this true?

Andy Briggs
Bremerton, Washington

Tell your Dad to pop the Odyssey² system back up to the set, Andy. While it's true that there was a danger of video game images being burned into the TV picture tube with some of the early black & white "Pong" type games, this is no longer possible due to highly sophisticated color changing routines built into most video game systems. As long as you follow directions, you have nothing to worry about!

EXPERT VIEW

I have designed and maintained electronic devices for years, and I look for value before I purchase anything. We looked long and hard before purchasing Odyssey. The purchase was made at the suggestion of our local appliance dealer whom we have learned to trust and have known for many years. He pointed out everything your unit had that the Atari did not have. We were sold on your system because yours had a computer keyboard and a computer programming cartridge that could be purchased to go along with it.

I am an engineer and my wife is a special education teacher. She has on occasion taken the Odyssey system to school as a teaching tool and a reward for her class.

Karl R. Wolfinger
St. Joseph, Michigan

We're pleased to see that a person with your educational credentials is an Odyssey fan. And as a teacher, your wife should be interested in the article on page six. Thanks for writing!

MORE FEEDBACK!

ODYSSEY BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

After an unsuccessful attempt to get a number of people together to see who was the better ball player of all of us that owned the Odyssey² system, invitations were mailed out to all the people known to play baseball in our area. The invitations gave three weeks advance notice. Fifteen players said they would appear for the tournament. After much anticipation, tournament night finally arrived. All players were agreeable that this tournament should be run by double elimination. One TV and Odyssey² unit were already on the premises, and another couple brought their television and mainframe so that two games would be in progress at any given time. Opponents were drawn by means of lottery by drawing names out of a hat. Plans are in the making for another tournament for February or March, and everyone is looking forward to it with much enthusiasm and anticipation. We all thank you for the entertainment that you have made possible.

Neil R. Noyes, Jr.
Laconia, New Hampshire

Thanks for letting us know about the tournament. Neil it sounds great! Please let us know about any future tournaments. Your enthusiasm for Odyssey is greatly appreciated.

THE PHILLIPS G7000

As a dedicated Odyssey Adventurer, I greatly enjoy receiving your magazine. It gives a lot of information on Odyssey, but it tells nothing about its twin, the Phillips G7000. The Phillips is sold in Europe, and has a separate line of games. Some games, such as STONE SLING, in the American version, it would be a good idea if you wrote about this.

Robert D. Kaiser
Winthrop, Massachusetts

We've had a number of letters about the Phillips G7000 and the game Stone Sling. The Phillips G7000 is indeed the European version of the Odyssey² system. Most of the games are the same as the Odyssey² system games, but have different names, since many of the game titles have different meanings in Europe. In fact, all the Videopacs, as they're called over there, have titles listed in several different languages, such as French, German, Italian, etc. Stone Sling is their name for the new Odyssey game called Smilneens. They even have their own club and newsletter, called Phillips G7000 Videogame Club News Odyssey (which is owned by North American Phillips) is truly an international phenomenon!

COMPUTER INTRO STARTS NEW CAREER

I would like to thank you for Computer Intro. I've just recently bought my Odyssey² and I've done a lot of thinking about what I want to be when I grow up. I love my Odyssey² and just recently I've seen Computer Intro. I bought it and loved it and it helped me understand computers a lot more. So I've decided to make my career in computer programming. So thanks for getting a computer programmer off to a great start.

Richard Vandy
Cincinnati, Ohio

Congratulations, Richard! Computer programming is definitely one of today's leading career fields for young people. Someday we might even find you designing video games!

MATH-A-MAGIC TEACHES MULTIPLICATION TABLES

I just want to tell you that our Odyssey² that we got for Christmas is just great! My 9-year-old daughter was having problems with her multiplication tables. Her teacher started to send flash cards home every night. I got the Math-A-Magic cartridge on a Friday. By Monday she knew every single multiplication fact from 1 x 1 to 9 x 9. Plus she enjoyed doing it! My preschooler is also using the same cartridge for adding. My 47-year-old brother was in a serious car accident two years ago. He had head injuries. The doctors weren't sure he would ever be the same again. After extensive therapy, he came home. My parents got him an Odyssey² game. His reflexes changed from terribly slow to normal. I think your Odyssey² game helped a great deal. The doctors even noticed the change. Thank you for helping to a speedier recovery. We are hooked on Odyssey². Keep making more good games.

Linda Eagles
Grave City, Pennsylvania

Thank you for the great letter, Linda. As you can see from the letter on page three from Mrs. Norma Norrell, and the article on page six, others have had similar experiences. The Odyssey² system is much more than a toy!

WHILE HIS HELPERS WORK ON NEW GAMES, THE WIZARD RECEIVES AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE.

I AM SPYRUS THE DEATHLESS, TIME LORD OF CHAOS! PREPARE TO MEET YOUR DOOM, WIZARD, AND THE END OF YOUR WORLD!

THIS FELLOW HAS A HIGH OPINION OF HIMSELF. WELL, WE SHALL SEE!

THAT WAS QUITE A BATTLE. THE WIZARD NEEDS A REST!

I AM SPYRUS DEATHLESS TIME LORD....

ALL RIGHT, WHO PUSHED THE RESET BUTTON?

OH, WELL, HERE WE GO AGAIN!

Every true Odyssey Adventurer knows that video games are more than just toys. Even the simplest games require a great deal of skill and a basic understanding of language and numbers. And now we're discovering that the Odyssey² system is being used in more and more classrooms, to teach math, spelling, and other skills, and to make learning more fun.

A growing number of teachers are finding out that video games can do a lot more than make loud noises and simulate space battles! In classrooms across the country, video games are becoming a part of the everyday curriculum. Odyssey has always been the leader in this field. Two years ago, a program was started to offer games and cartridges to schools, and the response has been enthusiastic.

"The games are great motivators, because kids would much rather play them than read a book," says Allan Keenan, a fifth-grade teacher at the Widmyer Elementary School in Berkeley Springs, West Virginia. "They're definitely a monotony breaker, and the students...are learning basic skills."

"I had little luck motivating one of my students to do math work until I started using Odyssey," says Alan Cheatham, a teacher at South Middle School in Knoxville, Tennessee. "Frankly, I was astonished at the results."

The success of the Odyssey² system in the classroom is due to a number of things. The most important is the keyboard, which makes games easier to play, and helps develop what people in the computer field call "keyboard literacy." What this means is that the Odyssey² keyboard helps people get used to computer keyboards, which are becoming more and more common in every area of our daily lives. "The games are serving as an introduction to microcomputers," says George Shannon, principal at Scarlet Oak School in suburban Chicago. "They give children the chance to manipulate while they learn, and this 'hands-on' experience helps carry their interest."

Another reason for the popularity of the Odyssey² system as a learning tool is the large number of educationally-oriented game car-

MEET "SID"^{SS} AND "NED"^{SS}... THEY COULD BE IMPORTANT PEOPLE IN YOUR LIFE!

SID the Spellbinder and Nimble Numbers NED are two new videogame cartridges from Odyssey that will test your math and spelling skills while providing hours of pure fun when used with the Voice of Odyssey. They make learning more fun than ever!

SID the Spellbinder is a fast-moving arcade-style game combined with the excitement of a talking spelling game. The Voice of Odyssey says the words, and the player types in the letters to spell them correctly. Good spelling earns you the ammunition you need to foil SID in an exciting shoot-'em-up competition for championship scores. For ages 6-10.

SID THE SPELLBINDER

Nimble Numbers NED is three talking math games that will give first through ninth graders a challenging test of their math skills. The Voice asks questions and displays them on the screen. Correct answers give the player a chance to score points by jumping the row of moving barrels.

Beginners start with Name the Shape. Intermediates go to Multiplication Run Through, and graduate to Function Machine (an introduction to algebra). Each game has 5 different skill levels. Nimble Numbers NED was developed with the cooperation of the College of Education at the University of Tennessee.

NIMBLE NUMBERS NED

tridges, such as Math-A-Magic & Echo, Computer Intrigue, I've got Your Number, and the new Nimble Numbers NED and SID the Spellbinder (both with Voice capability). According to Jerry Michaelson, vice president of marketing for Odyssey, "Odyssey has always felt a strong commitment to the educational potential of video games. That's why many of our cartridges are either educational or strategy games."

For the kids in the classroom, however, the best thing about the Odyssey² game is that it's fun!

For many schools, video games are just the first step towards a new approach to teaching and learning—one that makes the whole thing a lot more fun. The future of education is here today with Odyssey²!

Students in Mrs. Stob's second grade class at Shawnee Park School in Grand Rapids, Michigan discover the wonders of tape & tell.

If you've had an experience with the Odyssey² system in your classroom, Adventure Magazine would like to hear from you. Write and tell us about it—how you got the game in the classroom in the first place, what games you played, and what kinds of comments you heard. Show this article to your teacher and ask if you can bring your game to school. We'd like to hear your teacher's comments, too.

THE VOICE OF ODYSSEY

SPEAKS SPEAKS SPEAKS

The voice of Odyssey Speech and Sound Effects Module, combined with the Type & Tell cartridge, can produce an incredible range of speech and sounds. You'll discover all the things you can do by simply typing letters, numbers, and words on the screen.

The Voice "speaks" by using allophones, or parts of speech. Allophones are not the same thing as letters. A letter can have a different sound depending on how it is used in a word. If you type in a "b" by itself, for example, it will sound very different from the "b" in the word "bal." Allophones help us to break down speech into all its various sounds. The Type & Tell cartridge gives the Voice an unlimited vocabulary using allophones.

Of course, the Voice module also has stored within it certain standard words and sound effects, as well as two musical instruments (an electric piano and a calliope). These are the words and sounds you hear when you play many of the Voice-enhanced games, and that is why they sound very different from the voice you hear when you use the Type & Tell cartridge.

What's in a name? Your name is one of your most important possessions. The Voice of Odyssey will speak almost any name exactly as it is normally spelled. There are a few exceptions, however. For example, if your name begins with a short "a" as in Allison, Adam, or Ann, you may want to type in a double "a" in order to get the sound exactly right. A long "e" sound as in Elizabeth or Steven requires a double "e". A long "a" as in David or Amy comes out better if you type in "ay". Names with "uh" sounds, such as Christopher or Johnathan, sound better if you use a "u" instead of the "o" or "a". Here are a few more suggestions:

Nicholas—Nik Ole Us
Sean—Shawn
William—Wil Yum

The mixed-up message game Here's a game for two or more people that will cause howls of laughter. Turn down the brightness control on your TV until all you can see on the screen is the little white square, (known as the "cursor"). Then take turns typing in one word at a time until the message board is filled. Push the "enter" button and the Voice will repeat a very strange message! Repeat the message several times and see who can be the first to figure out what the Voice is trying to say.

Impersonating Sounds The Voice of Odyssey can do more than just reproduce human speech. It will also impersonate various common sounds. A few examples are given below. See if you can guess what they are. First try to guess without typing them in. The answers are upside down at the bottom of this page. Try to come up with more ideas. We'd like to see the best ones. If they're really good, we'll print them in a future issue of Adventure Magazine!

high scores

Listed below are the all-time high scores reported for a group of selected Odyssey games. We've included only those games in which an Adventurer has yet reached the top score possible or the top score which will register on the screen. For example, we've left out Alien Invaders Plus, since we've received hundreds of letters indicating that a 10 to 0 score was reached. We've also stopped taking high scores for K.C. Munchkin, since many gamers have reached 9,999, and no higher score will register. But there is still lots of room for competition.

If you can show proof (a photograph of the screen) that you have beaten one of these high scores, send it to us and we'll publish your name and score and send you a free Quest for the Rings T-shirt. We'll continue to publish this listing, adding new games as they are released, so that all Odyssey Adventurers will know the kind of score they must achieve to be truly worthy of the title of "Adventurer." We'll also print the names of some high-scorers who didn't quite score high enough to win a T-shirt, but who deserve an "honorable mention."

(1999 is the highest score which can be verified on this game by a photo of the television screen, and many Adventurers have already reached this level and beyond. Therefore we can't include it in the High Score competition.)

ALBERT IN ODYSSEY

Albert was beginning to get nrry brnd. His big brother was playing Pick Ase Pete, and doing very well, indeed. His score was np te 3,000 s lmedy s nd hn was still going strong "Albert's eyes began te close.

Snddnny, Pick Axe Pete jumped right off thr TV screen and went running acress thr living room! Albert hesitated only e mement te wonder about ll, and then hn jumped np and hnried after the prospector, just in time te see him pop through thr door into thr hall closet. Albert followed him whent e second thought.

The moment Albert entered the closet he began te fall, very slowly, so that he had time te look about him. Hn was falling through e dark mineshaft, with boulders bonncing all arend him. Jnst when he was afriad that ene might strike him, his fall ended and he came thumping te the bottom el thr shaft.

Albert glngnly fnlk his head te make snre he wasn't hurt, thnn hnmped te his feet and leeknd around. There was Pick Axn Pnte furiously picking away at the boulders thnt came bonncing tewards him. Albert called out, but Pete just kept picking.

Snddnny Albert saw s giant benlder bonncing tewards him! At the last moment he jumped, s nd thr benlder bonnced hermlessly by. Albert stertnd running loward Pete, and almost tripped ovr e largn golden key lying in his path. Albert grabbed fer it, bnt Pete was quicker. The prospector snatched the key, fitted it into s heavy wooden door, and disappeared through the opening.

Whll, Albert knew how this gsmn was played. He quickly grabbed thr exe that Pnte had dropped s nd began smashing the boulders that nebnnd te bounce cressly down thr mineshaft. Snddnny a huge benlder came crashing tewards him, but as he prepared te swing hn discovered that his ssn had disappeared! Albert tried te keep ent el the way, bnt it was tee late. The boulder smashed into him, rellng him ennr end ovrnt. His head was spinning, he was losing conscousness . .

Slowly Albert sat up. Amazingly, hn wasn't hurt, but when was hn? As his eyes edjsted te his new surroundings, hn realized hn was in e thick forest, sitting beneath a giant mushroom. Hn stntched himself up en his tiptees and peered ovr the edge of the mushroom. His eyes lmedately mnt those el s large caterpillar sitting en tep el thr mushroom.

Thn nterpillar s nd Albert looked at nech ether. Finsly thr nterpillar asknd, "Who are you?"

"I'm Albert," said Albert. "I mean, I think I em. At least, I waa when I woke up this mornng. Now I den't know."

"Well, I den't know, nither," said the caterpillar, who thnn teek e big blin el thr mushroom.

"I know whe you are," cried Albert. "You're the Dreits pillar!"

"At your senken," said the Dreitepillar. "Heve you senn my Drats?"

"Ne," said Albert, who was looking off into thr forest. "Bnt yon'd better get ent el here, I think K.C. is coming!"

The Dreitepillar jumped np from the mushroom and, with a nery worried look en his face, wnt slithering elf through thr fnns. Right behind him neern the shaggy Mnnechkn, grinning broadly as he mced by Albert and chased thr Dretpillar all into the woods. "Hnrry!" said a voice from the trees.

"Who said that?" Albni called out.

"I'm the Voice of Odyssey," came the thundering reply.

"Where are you?" Albert asked.

"Everywhere and nowhere," said the Voice. "It depends on what game you're playing."

"I'm not playing any game," said Albert. "I fell down a mineshaft chasing Pink Axe Pete, but now I want to go home."

"There's only one way to go home," said the Voice. "You'll have to light Myllrog the Dragon, and capture the Ring."

"I can do that," said Albert, who had played Quest for the Rings many times. "But how do I get to the Dragon?"

"Simple," said the Voice. "Just push the right button."

"What button?" said Albert, but when he spoke, a giant Odyssey keyboard, with a Quest for the Rings overlay on it, came floating out of the air. He munched up and pressed the Reset button, then the Dungeon button, and suddenly found himself standing in a cold, dark, musty Dungeon, with a gleaming sword in his hand.

"I don't know about this," said Albert, somewhat frightened. Suddenly he heard a shuffling sound behind him. He whirled around and discerned a whole group of evil Orcs staring at him. "GET AWAY FROM ME!" Albert cried. Then he remembered the sword. He raised the weapon over his head, and brought it down on the nearest Orc, who disappeared without a trace!

"This is easy," Albert said to himself, and he began hacking away at the Orcs, until there were none left. Then he set off down the corridor in search of the Ring.

After a few moments, Albert rounded a bend in the Dungeon and there, bigger than life, was the most horrible Dragon he had ever seen! It was Myllrog. The Dragon roared and, upon spying Albert, roared thunderously, large flames spouting from his nostrils.

Albni jumped behind a pillar just in time to avoid the Dragon's fiery breath. He stood there shivering for a moment, until he remembered that his only way out of this situation was to capture the Ring. He peeked around the corner, and saw that Myllrog was at the end of the main corridor. Albert took a deep breath, and began running as fast as he could.

The Dragon turned and saw Albert. Whoosh! Another ball of fire came sizzling toward him. Albert raised his sword and the ball bounced off it. The Dragon roared and lunged toward him, but again he raised his sword. The Dragon was momentarily stunned, but attacked once more. This time the sword killed him, and Albni was born old in the Dragon's stead!

"Help!" Albert screamed. "Help me!" The Dragon shook him until he dropped the sword!

"Wake up, Albert!" a voice was calling.

"What's the matter with you?"

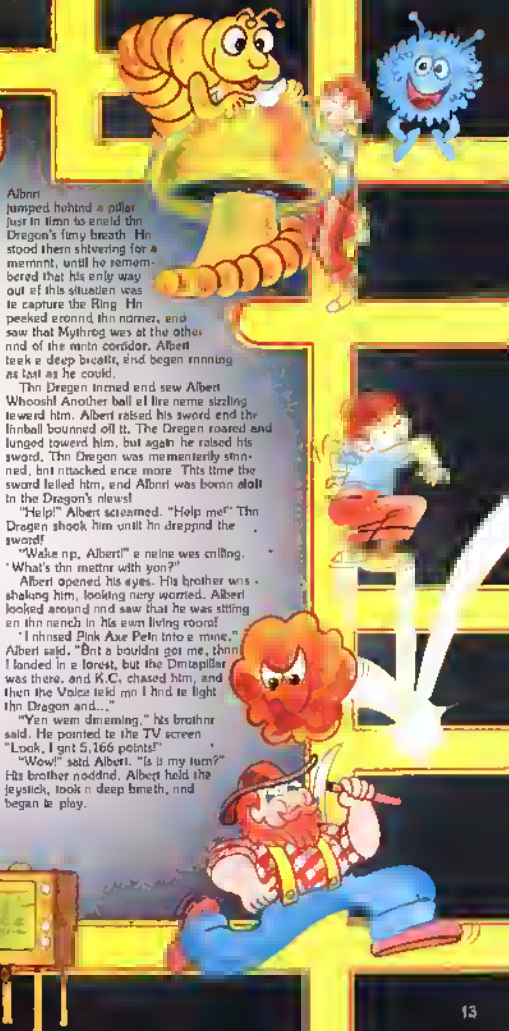

Albert opened his eyes. His brother was shaking him, looking very worried. Albert looked around and saw that he was sitting on the bench in his own living room!

"I inhaled Pink Axe Pete into a mine," Albert said. "But a bouldr got me, then I landed in a forest, but the Dretpillar was there, and K.C. chased him, and then the Voice told me I had to light the Dragon and..."

"You were dreaming," his brother said. He pointed to the TV screen.

"Look, I got 5,166 points!"

"Wow!" said Albert. "Is it my turn?" His brother nodded. Albert held the joystick, took a deep breath, and began to play.

COMING UP

KILLER BEES

Beebots from an alien insect civilization invade a flowering green planet called Earth. Their warriors and bodyguards are swarms of killer bees which are impervious to all nuclear and conventional weapons. The Beebots themselves are susceptible only to the sting of Earth bees. You control the hive mind of these bees on Earth who are fiercely loyal to their home planet. They can kill Beebots, but the Beebots become faster and the Killer Bees get smarter as they grow accustomed to Earth's atmosphere. Your only hope is the mind zapping RoSha Ray that destroys the ferocious alien swarms. Killer Bees features advanced digital scoring, with memory for the high player's score, and full sync-sound action with ominous buzzing sounds when played through the Voice of Odyssey. It is scheduled for release in March. Cartridge number 9447

TURTLES*

Mama turtle needs your help to find her baby turtles and carry them safely home on her back. But you never know when Mama turtle is going to be bugged by a giant turtle-eating beetle. Several of them are running through the hall-

DEMON ATTACK AND ATLANTIS

The first two Odyssey-compatible games from Imagic should be arriving at the stores any day now. They are the popular Demon Attack and Atlantis. If what we have been hearing is true, these are only the first of many more exciting games to come in the near future!

Demon Attack has won the celebrated Game of the Year award from Electronic Games Magazine. The object of the game is shoot as many demons as possible without getting destroyed. In a valiant attempt to save your scientific colony, Demons split in half and multiply and dance across the screen to avoid your laser cannon. Vibrant colors combine with exceptional graphics to challenge one or two players on two difficulty settings. Allowed four lives at the start of the game, the player loses one life whenever he is hit by a diving demon or by the demon fire. He scores points for each demon he downs, but as the game progresses, they become harder and harder to hit.

Atlantis has been described by the editors of Electronic Games Magazine as "a magnificent videogame." The object of the game is to defend the city of Atlantis from attack by enemy aircraft, using three batteries of anti-aircraft cannon, three waves of bombers attack at various speeds, and at increasingly lower heights until the plane or the city is destroyed. The mechanics of play are simple. Moving the joystick to the right and pushing the action button will fire the cannon on the right. Moving the joystick up fires the center cannon, and moving it left fires the left-hand cannon. Both Atlantis and Demon Attack are excellent games, and will prove to be two more good reasons for purchasing Odyssey videogame systems.

ways of the tall building where the baby turtles are stranded. More are hidden in the secret rooms! You can temporarily de-bug a beetle with bug bombs—but you've got to get them to use them. When you've rescued all of the baby turtles on one floor of the building, you climb to a higher floor and begin again, with a new bunch of even hungrier beetles. Two alternating tunes accompany the rescue efforts when the game is played through the Voice of Odyssey. And the TURTLES* videogame gives you extra lives, just like the popular arcade game of the same name! TURTLES features advanced digital memory for high score in a series of games. It is scheduled for an April release. Cartridge number 9446

ADVENTURE CLUB

In our last issue we explained how you could go about forming your own local chapter at the Odyssey Adventure Club. Since then many Adventurers have written to request applications, and the map on this page shows many of the locations where club chapters are being formed. If you would like to form a club chapter and you haven't written for an application form, you can still do so. It's easy!

Write to Odyssey Adventure Club, 190 Monroe NW, Grand Rapids, MI 49503. We'll send you an official application form. Then get together at least five members of the Adventure Club in your local area. They can be current members or new members. Send $3.00 for each new member along with your application form. You'll receive a certificate certifying your group as an official chapter of the Odyssey Adventure Club. Each member will receive a membership card, and a one-year subscription to Odyssey Adventure Magazine (if they don't already have one). Your Adventure Club chapter will be able to participate in Odyssey activities which may take place in your area.

Many Adventurers have informal clubs already, and we invite them to become official chapters by sending for an application. Chris Howard, of Cowpens, South Carolina, for example, recently wrote to us and said, "I'm really excited about my Odyssey². I had several friends who wanted to buy other home video games. I told them before they buy, come to my house and just try my Odyssey². Once they looked at it they became quite interested. After I showed them the interesting features and new things they were coming out with, their minds were made up. They wanted Odyssey² at any price. I've got all my friends and family together and we have our own Odyssey² club where we can play. I spend many hours a day playing my Odyssey²."

New Adventure Club Chapters Are Forming All Over America!

That's the kind of spirit we're looking for to make the Adventure Clubs successful! And this is only the beginning. After enough local chapters have been formed, we will be able to begin planning regional club meetings, in which members from different clubs can get together and compete and compare notes on Odyssey games. Get in on the ground floor today by sending for an official application form. If you have any suggestions for things the Adventure Club can do, send them along. It's your club, so you tell us what you want!

Odyssey Pen Pals

In the last issue we also announced the beginning of the Odyssey Pen Pals. Many Adventurers have joined and have received the names of other members from around the country, who they can then write to and exchange information about the games they like to play, the scores they've achieved, and anything else they're interested in. There's still time for you to join! Here's all you do:

Send us your name, address, and age (along with a self-addressed, stamped envelope), and tell us you would like to be an Odyssey Pen Pal. We'll send you the names of other Adventurers in your age group who've written to us, and we'll send your name to others. Before long you'll be corresponding with people all over the country who have similar interests. And here's the best part: Before long you'll start getting surprise letters from people who've found your name on their lists. You'll discover how exciting it can be waiting to see what the mailman will bring each day!

TIPS

FROM THE EXPERTS

Conquest of the World

but you'll also get 60 fuel points.

Darren Bentler
Millville, NJ

TAKE THE MONEY AND RUN - If you flatter your man against the wall next to the scoring box, the robots will usually go right past you. Keep pushing the joystick.

Thom Durisok Derek Buckley
Harrisburg, PA Lytton, IA

THUNDERBALL - In other mode, fast or slow, if you hold the tilppers upright and release the ball, it's certain that you will hit one of the Backfield Bonus Bumpers worth 4,000 points.

Chip Schug
Columbus, IN

MONKEYSHINES - In game D, clear M8, Q8, N8, K8, E8, and Y8. Climb to the top and make a line from M4 to M7. When two or more monkeys are against the right hand wall, jump to the right with the joystick pushed to the right and the action button held down. You can score up to 200 points as you slide down the wall.

Brian Solmover
Buffalo Grove, IL

WAR OF NERVES - Keep pressing the Reset button until it says "Soloed Gomo" on a white screen with a black strip across the bottom half. Press 1, and it will be a totally different game!

Alan Lunde
Des Plaines, IL

QUEST FOR THE RINGS - When the Orcs are blocking the dragon, it is a good time to get the Ring. If the dragon breathes fire, the Orcs will block the fireball.

David Wright
Botavia, IL

Try designing your own game board with more castles, using pennies for markers. You can also put in places where you have to change heroes, so you have to be good with all the heroes to win.

Kevin Wolburg
Pella, IA

FREEDOM FIGHTERS - When you are in conventional space drive, pushing the joystick left or right causes you to drift. To stop the ship, push slightly up or down.

Mike Dewshop
Braintree, MA

INVASERS FROM HYPERSPACE - This is what I call the Observation Mode. Start by moving the Rod Ship just out of sight on the left edge of the screen. Then take the Yellow Ship and begin destroying the planets (by crashing into them). When only the two center planets are left, the aliens will never fire at you unless you fly into their line of fire as they light each other to control the planets (unless one ship gains control over both planets). Use the fire from the Red Ship to turn a planet yellow if your Yellow Ship is destroyed. You can now observe the aliens' war and score points at will.

CONQUEST OF THE WORLD - Using the submarine as a beach-landed artillery unit gives an optional weapons offensive, since a sub touching a land perimeter becomes land-based artillery.

George D. Ritchie
South Euclid, Ohio

Darken screen with TV controls for night operations. Caution: Minefields can barely be seen with darkened screen when using tanks.

George D. Ritchie
South Euclid, Ohio

When your jet fights the tank, line your jet's fire up with the tank's and go straight in after him, with the action button held down. The best place to do this is coming from the top straight down. The tank's fire cannot break through the jet's but the jet's fire can break through the tank's. (Editor's note: Just be sure to pull out of your drive in time!)

Robert H. Belmore, Jr.
Dorchester, MA

To have radar on a submarine, go under water and straight to one side of the screen. You'll know you're of the side when your energy units stop counting down. Then you can move to the top or bottom and always know where you are when your energy units stop counting down.

Brian Driscoll
Rochester, MN

PICK AXE PETE - Get as close to a door without getting thrown out. The gold nuggets will go right through you.

Stephen Dunn Daniel Gaborski
Smithtown, NY Victor, NY

On a black maze, watch the rocks to find out where the holes are.

Jordan Holthause
Willard, OH

OUT OF THIS WORLD - In game 3, hit your button when your ship reaches the last star in the background (and then hit up). Not only will you get down safely,
